

Latino Studies Research Symposium

- Melanie Plasencia, “No Tengo Dinero, Pero Tengo Mucha Gente”: A Qualitative Exploration of How Older Latino Immigrants Age in Place in an Ethnic Enclave
- Kethleen Lopez, The Rutgers Latino and Caribbean Community Memory Project
- Carlos U. Decena, Indecent Conocimientos: A Queer of Color Peregrinaje
- Yalidy Matos, Adiós a ‘pie seco, pie mojado’: Changing US Immigration Policy Toward Cubans
- Jason Cortes, El Muerto Parao’ (Debt, Haunting, Disposability)
- Natalie Saldariaga, The American Immigrants
- Ulla Berg, Making the Road (Back): Deportation, Personhood, and the Right to Mobility Across the Americas
- Lilia Fernandez, One Black Judge, Two Mexican Defendants, and the White Backlash: The Overlooked Significance of Latinos in Criminal Justice History

The Rutgers Latino Studies Research Initiative

For further Information:

Lilia Fernandez Aldo Lauria Santiago
lilia.fernandez@rutgers.edu alauria@lcs.rutgers.edu

Friday,
March 2 2017
10AM-2PM
411 College
Ave. Student Center.
Breakfast/
Lunch Provided